Perler: Fishing is one of the most realistic, accessible and exciting ways to earn your own living. Perler: Fishing Classic is a realistic simulation game with beautiful scenery, a wide range of fishing rigs and more than 70 trophy fish. There is no fishing licence or need for a boat, and you can use all your favorite rods and reels. In Classic Mode you have to worry about only four things: - Set the desired target length for the fish you catch - Load the rod - Cast with precision and accuracy - Land the fish In Classic Mode, you can spend as much time as you need on your adventure and play at your own pace. If you want to unlock more bonuses and perks by catching more fish you can choose between Full Quest Mode, which makes it even more real, and Quest Mode, which does not affect your fishing income but can be quite difficult. The game offers roughly one day's fishing on every lake and it is easy to create your own profile with your own goals and challenges. This makes it even more immersive, as you work toward your goals and complete challenges in your own way. In Perler: Fishing: Classic you don't need a license for fishing. You can fish on any lake or the sea without a license. (1 player) Software subject to license (us.playstation.com/softwarelicense). What's new:

 Final Battle Strike Wave 1 (October 25th 2017) Final Battle Strike Wave 1 – The Archenemy The first of Final Battle Strike Wave One brings us the Archenemy, a unit normally too difficult to encounter. Bandai has already revealed that they have previously teamed up with Senran Kagura on a unit from the Great Eta Ri series. But what does Bandai have for us this time around? Coming from America, as mentioned in the opening post, comes a final big bad before grinding down to your next adversary. This time, it's a giant robot, the "Archenemy". After 4 upgrades, it attacks in the following form: An enormous number of units that depending on how far you advance will transform in to its next phase. You will want to side step or shoot at it, as the attacks are very disorienting. Any predictable strategy will be useless. While it is a bit slow and not the fastest unit in the game, it is menacing in size and will definitely cause problems for the first time people who will try to combat it. In a game filled with plenty of Valkyrie units, the Archenemy is a welcome change as it turns out some of the more agile units are the decoy units that we have been waiting for. They are balanced well with the fighters, and are more mobile than your regular flyers that can be set up in to attack without fear of being destroyed or attack back. The abilities are based on lessons learned from Mutta's kits. Sometimes it does not go off due to it's high defense, while other times it grabs your followers with high hit points. The arrival of the Siegwurds was always expected, and they have another phase. The later game battles will have you against these giants, as these survive the first fight and infect the battlefield. The combined firepower of complete giants will leave the opponent in pieces if defended against properly. A decent number of them can be defeated before becoming this unwieldy, and even if you think your ice fortress is prepared for these enemies, it will have to be rebuilt before you can hit it. The Archenemy's second form is the Ryuujin, or Ryukenin if you prefer. This kick ass unit can be equipped with a variety of weaponry. After the first few battles the starting weapon becomes largely irrelevant because you will have 4 ready for 4 Ryuken
