When you're done, press Return to accept the stroke type. If you do need to change a type of text, and the only option you want is to so, go to the Swatches tool and click the Type icon. With that tool selected, click the text you want to change and choose any font from the options menu. The Color Selector pane lets you choose a color to apply to the stroke or fill. Maybe you're blending a new background with an old one. One option is to use Content Aware Fill, which uses an algorithm to figure out the most appropriate color to use for filling from a selection.
